EVANGELICAL CHURCH TO OPEN TOMORROW

New Building, Occupied by Oldest Congregation Here, to Be Dedicated.

The new building of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, at Wisconsin avenue and Volta place, Georgetown, will be dedicated at 11 p'clock tomorrow morning. The occasion will be especially notable in that the newest church structure will be taken over by the oldest congregation in the District:

The impressive ritual of the church will be used and the dedicatory sermon will be delivered by the Rev. H. H. Weber, of York, Pa., secretary of the board of church extension. A special musical program will be provided for both this service and the one at 7:30 o'clock, when the pastor of the church, the Rev. Luther Hess Waring, will preach. A reception will be held Monday evening for the visiting clergy.

The church was established upon its present site in 1769. It was built of logs and was then the only church in this section of the country. Georgetown was then under English rule, but the services were in German, and this was continued until forty years ago. The first building was replaced by a frame structure in 1835, and in turn that was ased to make away for a brick one in

The new building is of Potomac blue stone, of German gothic architecture, cruciform in shape and with a seating capacity in the main auditorium of 350. In addition to the church proper there PASTOR TO OBSERVE are a main Sunday school room and two large class rooms, while social rooms and parlors are in the basement.

The cost of the building, which was designed by Murphy and Olmsted, was $21,000. The Milton Construction Company and the general contract, and pany had the general contract, and Louis Perma did the stone work.

The building committee, with the pastor as chairman, consists of John F. Darcey. Henry F. Kunkel, Henry G. Wagner, William A. Pettus, and Andrew Lindberg.

Temple Talks, Alpha Series

When the Great Frenchman, Ferdinand De Lesseps, projected the Panama Canal in 1888, he failed to grip the problems of his difficult task. Expensive and useless machinery was in evidence; rapid progress was made in the lowlands; glowing reports went flying to the home office. But the end of it all was a gigantic failure. The unfortunate engineer had not reckoned with the Chagres River, which resisted the course of the canal like the destroying legendary dragon of the Rhineland. Too late he discovered that digging a ditch in yielding valleys differed from channeling the Culebra Hills through a stretch of eight miles of rock at an average depth of 140 feet. His railure to fight the enervating fevers of a region almost under the tropics was the worst blunder of all. He was not prepared, and he failed. Under these conditions success would have been an accident, if not impossible. Under American Control the malarial mosquito is banished. Sanitary cities flourish. The menacing river is imprisoned in a vast lake, to supply light and power for the canal route. Every cubic foot of the hills was reckoned with before the steam shovel stuck its steel nose into their sides. Uncle Sam succeeded. He was prepared. Failure for him would have been accidental, if not impossible.

But This Vast Bit of Engineering Dwarfs before your task-the big 'gest job in the world-your obligation to find a way from the nearer sea of untried strength to the pearl floored depths of victorious living. To cover the laps you will have rock to blast. There is no primrose path to greatness. Genius is common sense baptized in sweat. aspiration and perspiration account for the men at the top.

Be Prepared! A man will go to hell as surely for ordinary newspaper copy, or sloven service to the Government, or for any other half done duty, as he will for missing the Sacraments. Whoever made these every day tasks "Secular," and called others "Sacred," died long before he was buried. Let his false distinction rest in peace with him.

Your Work is Not World Impiring. Never mind. It's yours, and that's enough to make it the greatest thing in the world for you. "Hatchet and Saw" carpenters are expert cabinet makers who went bad through lack of preparation. They build fine back fences. Prepare yourselves! Swear that you will never remain a machinist's helper, when a dash of preparation will enable you to build a triple expansion engine.

Above All This is the Duty to Excel in Character. The testing time comes to all men who have souls big enough and bright enough to catch the devil's eye. One of the most remarkable words ever uttered is spoken in the Church; it is to the effect that no man need fail of victory. Pathtinder that it is, the Church stresses preparation and supplies the moral and physical fiber that stands the pull of any evil. Contrast the influence of the Church with that of any other organization in preparing men for the full attainment and enjoyment of life.

It is More Important to Be Worthy of an Office Than to Occupy One. Some men fill a position, others rattle about in it. The world's searchlights are pentrating every nook of mother earth to discover the man who is prepared to fill an office. The Church Inspires the Will to Do. It sets the goal of worthy attainment. It makes it hard for one to do wrong, and easy for him to do right. It points the way to the diamond fields of happiness. The world furnishes the tools and trappings for the conquest. You Need
